Dear Richard,

I can not attend the meeting on Tuesday evening for the discussion on "texting while driving." Several years ago the State of New Jersey enacted a law that banned all mobile or electronic devices in the hands of the driver in a moving vehicle. I do remember that the fine was substantial, and that it did not matter if the device was turned off.

Your safety committee should be able to look the law up for reference.

I hope that this may be of some help.

Sincerely,

Jim Scully
