

Wickl^{ow} PEOPLE

WEDNESDAY, MAY 2, 2012

Companies rewarded for climate care

WICKLOW BAGS TWO AWARDS

MYLES BUCHANAN

ENNISKERRY-BASED Crowley Carbon and Nemos Horticultural Ltd, Arklow were among 22 different companies to receive awards given to companies, organisations and individuals for substantial efforts in tackling climate change through innovative sustainable initiatives.

Crowley Carbon which is leading the way in the re-design of energy and resource intensive products and processes while Nemos Horticultural Ltd won two awards at the annual Green Awards for creating SuperNemos, a new innovative product which is a natural alternative to chemical pesticides.

The company also won the Green Innovation Award and the Green Product Award.

Commenting on Crowley Carbon's success, the judging panel said, 'Crowley Carbon reckon many firms waste 5 per cent of their energy, and they've got a terrific track record of delivering huge savings for a string of blue chip clients.'

'Nemos won the Green Innovation Award because it's new biologically friendly insecticide product is environmentally sound, and claims oped here in Ireland its set to completely revolutionise soft fruit production,' the panel added.

SuperNemos is the first broad spectrum bio-insecticide Researched and Developed in Ireland. The innovation is new to the industry and to be more efficient than conventional chemical based products. Researched and devel-is a natural alternative to chemical pesticides.

■ John Harrington from RealEyes presenting The Green Product Award to Ciaran Walsh from Nemos Horticultural Ltd.

Picture from Conor McCabe Photography