

Steven Chester is a City Planner with the Department of Community Planning and Development with the City and County of Denver. Steven's expertise is in transit oriented development and station area planning and implementation. Steven's work to date with Denver includes the City's HUD/DOT Sustainable Communities Planning Grant and an update to the City's TOD Strategic Plan. Prior to working with the City and County of Denver, Steven worked with the TOD Group at RTD, and was a Residential Green Building Consultant for Davis Energy Group in Davis, CA, focusing on the LEED for Homes.

Steven has a Masters of Urban and Regional Planning focusing on Urban Place Making and Transportation Planning from University of Colorado, and Dual B.A. in Environmental Studies and Geography from Middlebury College.