2017 ANNUAL CUREC GOLF TOURNAMENT JUNE 1, 2017

2017 FACT SHEET

Why Support the Annual CUREC Golf Tournament?

The Annual University of Colorado Real Estate Council Golf Tournament offers the opportunity to play at the extraordinary Fossil Trace Golf Club in Golden, Colorado. The Tournament brings together CU alumni, sponsors, students and real estate professionals in a friendly and competitive golf tournament on Thursday, June 1, 2017. The tournament is scheduled for a shotgun start at 1:030pm, with a buffet following the event. Join us and support the University of Colorado Real Estate Center as we gather for an afternoon of golf, networking, and fun.

With your support, we look forward to bringing together 80 players for a great afternoon of competition and fun for a great cause.

Tournament Format

Participants will compete with their collective foursome in a Best Ball tournament. Each player will play the hole independently; upon completion of the hole the best net score from each team is recorded. USGA handicaps (or honorable estimations) will be used to ensure a fair competition.

The University of Colorado Real Estate Center

The University of Colorado Real Estate Center (CUREC) was founded in 1989 by a passionate group of local real estate professionals to establish a world-class real estate program within the University of Colorado's business school. Today, there are over 300 members of the CU Real Estate council that are helping to develop the next generation of real estate leaders. The program provides both undergraduate and MBA students with the opportunity to earn a degree with an emphasis in real estate.

Sign-Up

Start putting your teams together today. Individual and sponsorship opportunities are now available, but filling up fast.

The tournament fees are $500 per player, with approximately $250 being used to support the University of Colorado Real Estate Center and considered a tax deductible donation.
