

The Bride

Words & Music by Kip Fox
Copyright 2014 Wilt Creative Music

In the garden, the world was good
Everything was right as Adam walked the woods
Still his heart was incomplete
For the Father had withheld the final piece
So he laid his creature down to sleep

And He opened his side
To make a bride
Out of one he made another
Come to life
Perfect love
Magnified
A new creation
From his side

In another garden, God saw his own
Once again he found a man alone
But he would not help this time
For the only way to bridge the great divide
Was to His let only son be crucified

So he turned from his side
To save the bride
Through the one
He'd give the other back her life
Perfect love
Condemned to die
Blood and water
From his side

The son would rise again to set her free
Thomas had to see it to believe

So he unveiled his side
To show the bride
He had conquered death that she would have new life

Son of God
Lifted high
To join the Father
At his side
And walk the garden
With the bride