

IRNRD

INTERNATIONAL RESEARCH NETWORK ON RELIGION AND DEMOCRACY

The International Research Network on Religion and Democracy (IRNRD) is an international scholarly organization run by a group of scholars working in different fields of the social sciences, political science, theology and philosophy. The objective of this cooperation is to pursue a wide-ranging interdisciplinary discussion and research concerning questions of religion, politics, and democracy; issues regarding secularization and the so-called post-secular condition; problems of religious violence and peace building; as well as other issues with regard to the socio-political and cultural influence of religion in contemporary societies. Besides the cooperative research work the members of the network intend to develop shared educational activities, organize conferences and workshops and other scholarly activities. It is also the aim of the members to participate in joint grant/funding application processes, thereby strengthening the institutional aspects of the cooperation.

The International Research Network on Religion and Democracy (IRNRD) is an international scholarly organization run by a group of scholars working in different fields of the social sciences, political science, theology and philosophy. The objective of this cooperation is to pursue a wide-ranging interdisciplinary discussion and research concerning questions of religion, politics, and democracy; issues regarding secularization and the so-called post-secular condition; problems of religious violence and peace building; as well as other issues with regard to the socio-political and cultural influence of religion in contemporary societies.

Besides the cooperative research work the members of the network intend to develop shared educational activities, organize conferences and workshops and other scholarly activities. It is also the aim of the members to participate in joint grant/funding application processes, thereby strengthening the institutional aspects of the cooperation.

Past events

Conference: Religion and Democracy: Challenges and Prospects (15-16 December 2008, Lutheran Theological University, Budapest)

Conference: Political Theology for the 21st Century? (14-15 December 2009, Corvinus University Budapest)

Forthcoming events

Conference: Rawls and Religion (10-11 December 2010, LUISS University, Rome)

Events under organization

Politics, Religion and the Problem of Good Society (UCD Dublin, December 2011)

Politics and Evil (University of Lapland, Rovaniemi, December 2012)

Religion and Human Rights: Global Perspectives (University of Delhi, December 2013)

Publications / Books

From Political Theory to Political Theology Religious Challenges and the Prospects of Democracy, eds. Péter Losonczi – Aakash Singh, Continuum, New York – London, 2010

<http://www.continuumbooks.com/books/detail.aspx?BookId=13660&&SubjectId=1023&Subject2Id=1024>

Advisory Board

Neera Chandhoke (University of Delhi)

Maeve Cooke (University College Dublin)

Herman De Dijn (Catholic University Leuven)

Sebastiano Maffettone (LUISS University, Rome)

András Lánctzi (Corvinus University, Budapest)

Johannes A. van der Ven (Radboud University Nijmegen)

Members

Tom Bailey (John Cabot University, Rome)

Jianhong Chen (Nankai University)

András Csepregi (Lutheran Theological University Budapest)

Theo De Wit (Tilburg University)

Julianne Funk Deckard (KU Leuven)

Michael Hoelzl (The University of Manchester)

Péter Losonczi (University of West Hungary, Szombathely)

Patrick Loobuyck (University of Antwerp)

Mika Luoma-aho (University of Lapland, Rovaniemi)

Aakash Singh (LUISS University, Rome)

Konrad Pędziwiatr (Jozef Tischner European University, Kraków)

Alexander Rosenthal (Johns Hopkins University, Washington D.C.)

Cooperative Partners

Uner Daglier (Maltepe University)

William Desmond (Catholic University Leuven)

Vincent Jolasa (University of Indonesia)

Peter Jonkers (Tilburg University)

John Rundell (University of Melbourne)

Walter Van Herck (University of Antwerp)

Ajay Verma (University of Delhi)

Contact persons/coordinators

Aakash Singh

aakashsinghrathore@yahoo.com

Péter Losonczi

lospeter@yahoo.com