Salt Hill is a literary journal publishing outstanding new fiction, poetry, creative nonfiction and art. Now over 10 years old, the journal is published by writers affiliated with the Creative Writing Program at Syracuse University. Our readers are avid book buyers, and many of them are writers themselves, who attend writing classes, residencies, MFA programs, and conferences. In addition, Salt Hill regularly exhibits at industry conferences such as AWP, greatly expanding the journal's reach. Salt Hill is published semiannually in Spring and Fall.
