

Your council is changing

When your new Cheshire West and Chester unitary authority begins on 1 April 2009, it will take over from the existing district and county councils. We are carrying out a review to establish how many councillors are needed to best represent you and your community.

We need your views on:

What the new council's responsibilities should be

How it should work with your local community

How councillors should work together to deliver the services you rely on

What the new unitary authority's political management and scrutiny functions will look like

Visit our website at www.boundarycommittee.org.uk and click on 'about electoral reviews' for helpful guidance on the information we need from you.

Once we have decided how many councillors there should be, we will need to ask you for more information that helps us to decide the number, names and boundaries of the new divisions.

You have until 6 April 2009 to contact us at:
