I hope this letter finds you well and in a generous spirit. Fallyn McNamara is a sweet 6 year old little girl with a genetic condition, known as Epidermolysis Bullosa (EB), which is incredibly painful and can be fatal. For children with EB, the slightest pressure or friction on the skin can result in severe and painful blisters, similar to a burn. Because of her fragile skin, Fallyn is covered in bandages which must be changed daily. EB has also affected her internal organs, making normal eating impossible.

Fallyn has the spirit of a fighter, however, and happily goes off to first grade each day in her motorized wheelchair. With the extraordinary care provided by her family, Fallyn is able to enjoy some of the things most children her age take for granted, like playing with her two big sisters or on the computer. However, the long-term prospects for her health without a successful cure are not good.

Fortunately for Fallyn, doctors at the University of Minnesota have recently developed a potential cure involving a bone marrow transplant followed by extensive therapy. Fallyn was recently accepted into the University's program, and she will be undergoing this experimental treatment in the very near future. Her 11 year old sister, Jennifer, has been matched as a bone marrow donor.

As you can imagine, the cost of this procedure is extremely high and expenses are not all covered by insurance. Fallyn and her family desperately need your help to ensure that she has a chance at a possible cure.

Any amount you can give to the Trust established for Fallyn's benefit will help make her family's dream of finding a cure for this wonderful little girl a reality. No donation is too small. Checks should be made payable to the "Fallyn R. McNamara Special Needs Trust" and mailed to the address above. Thank you for your generosity,
