ST. THOMAS/ST. CATHERINE MASS SCHEDULE

Saturday, St. Catherine, Westfield - 7:00pm

Sunday, St. Thomas, Elkland - 11:30am

Liturgical Reflection

The 31st Sunday in Ordinary Time

FIRST READING: Malachi 1:14-2:2, 8-10

The Lord's words as spoken through the prophet Malachi, offer a stern warning to the priests who have turned from the way of the Lord. The commandment the prophet delivers to them, is to listen to the Lord. Should the priests not do that, they will face the Lord's curse. People follow their leaders and this was the case; the people who chose to follow the priests and stray from the God who created them. The Lord gives the priests another chance to come back to the covenant, so their people will do the same thing.

RESPONSORIAL PSALM: Psalm 131

The author of the psalm has found peace in God. Like children rest in their mother's arms, so the psalmist rests in God, finding stillness and quietness within. The psalmist's personal experience extends to Israel whose hope is in the Lord.

... PUT YOUR HOPE IN THE LORD BOTH now AND forevermore

SECOND READING: 1 Thessalonians 2:7-9, 13

The Thessalonians have truly received the Word of God, not just as human word, Paul tells them. When Paul and his coworkers preached the Gospel to the Thessalonians, they did so with kindness and gentleness, not only communicating the Word, but sharing themselves as well. The community as Thessalonica endeared themselves to the ministers of the Gospel, supporting the missionaries even when their work was labor intensive.

GOSPEL: Matthew 23:1-12

You have one instructor, the Christ.

The scribes and the Pharisees have cast themselves as hypocrites in Jesus' eyes. Jesus now speaks to the crowds and his disciples instructing them to do as they say, but not as they do. Everything the scribes and Pharisees love: honor, passing off their hard work on others, and public adoration is not the way of the life in Jesus. At the conclusion of the Gospel, Jesus summarizes the life of his follower consistent with everything he has taught to this point: Christ is the one Master, the greatest is the servant, and humility leads to exaltation. How different from the life of the Pharisees!

November – the Month of All Souls

Intercessions on behalf of those who have died is a cherished tenet of our Catholic faith, springing from our belief in the resurrection of the body and the communion of saints. Though separated from the living, the dead are still at one with the community of believers on earth and benefit from their prayer and intercession. Trusting in God's mercy, we continue to pray for them, knowing that this spiritual bond with our brothers and sisters who have died can never be broken. In the month of November, we pray in a special way for those who have died – those who are known to us, and those who are unknown.

That's The Way It Is!

The last major area of the survey was the social concerns area. This area of the survey deals with the social justice concerns in our parish and the larger community. The results in this area were generally positive. The comments suggested that people are appreciative of the different activities our social concerns committee is involved with. People would like to see our parish expand our outreach offerings. Some people requested that the parish make sure we do as much as we can to make people aware of the different outreach activities the social concerns committee is involved. Many people offered some great suggestions as to different ways we might expand our outreach to the community.

Our parish is already engaged in many areas of outreach. The Samaritan House hospice program offered by our parish is unique. To my knowledge, no other parish, Catholic or Protestant, offers a program like this. Samaritan House provides a place for the dying and their families to receive hospice care. Many of our volunteers are Catholic, but many are not. This outreach of our parish is truly community wide and it enjoys the support not only of our parish but the wider community. The Samaritan House is funded by our parishioners and the wider community. I am happy to report that due to the generosity of our supporters this outreach remains fiscally healthy. In the near future Samaritan House will undergo some exterior renovations in order to make the house more easily accessible to people, especially in the winter. This project is funded completely by donations from the friends of the Dalton family. They desired to do something to honor Cindy Dalton who passed away last February. Cindy was very much involved with the Samaritan House as a volunteer.

Another area of outreach is the funeral lunch program. Due to the generosity of our volunteers our parish is able to offer funeral lunches to the family and friends of deceased parishioners. The families are truly grateful for this offering. Other areas of outreach include but are not limited to the following: Christmas giving tree, Christmas day dinner, backpack project, Valentine's Day dinners for the elderly, collections for the local food pantry, prison outreach, homeless shelter initiatives, Supplies for mothers who have unexpected pregnancies, pro-life activities, and more.

Of course the needs even in a small rural town like Wellsboro are endless. The needs in our parish are endless. Some people have suggested we explore the possibility of offering a "new comers" program as a way to connect parishioners with some of the new people who have registered. A visitation program for the elderly or shut-ins, food drives with the food being brought up as part of the offertory procession, and outreach to minority communities was also suggested. Some people requested that we change the rectory office hours to better accommodate families who cannot conduct parish business during those hours. I want to note in answer to this request that while the rectory is open from 9-2, I am never out of contact. If I am home after the office is closed I will answer the phone. If I do not answer the phone and the person leaves a message I call the person back as soon as I can. The rectory staff can testify that I do not let phone messages pile up. As soon as I get the message I am calling the person. Last evening (Monday) I got back to the rectory from Elkland around 9:00PM. I saw the phone blinking which meant there were messages. I checked the messages and called the people right then. For emergencies my pager number is listed.

I am going to continue to work with the different committees to find ways to expand our outreach. This year we have become involved with the homeless shelter initiative. Please note that in order to have active outreach to the wider community, we need volunteers. Anyone in the parish who feels called to volunteer for an outreach, or wants to start something need only call the rectory and talk to me. We are glad for any other ideas or suggestions and we need all the volunteers we can get. I see these things as falling under "community organizing" type things. Whatever I am good at as a priest, I am not good at community organizing type stuff. One of my cohorts remarked one day in frustration "You know they train us in seminary to be theological practitioners when what is needed in the parish is community organizing." All I can say is true that! Any parishioner who feels they have a gift for community organizing type stuff and wants to share that gift with the parish is invited to do so!

That's the way it is!

Pro Life News

PRIESTS FOR LIFE

The first reading from Malachi asks, "Have we not all one Father? Has not the one God created us?" This theme is echoed in the Gospel's teaching, "Call no one on earth your father; you have but one Father in heaven." In a culture of death, the worldview is that we are responsible only for those for whom we choose to be responsible, and that this choice is a purely individual, private matter. Such a culture would have us believe that someone's decision to abort a child is "none of our business." But if we all have one Father, then that makes us brothers and sisters, and means that our lives are entrusted to one another's care. We are responsible for each other before we choose to be. The abortions that others have are our business, because those children – as well as their parents -- are also entrusted to our care, in the one family of God. Ours is the business of love, to care as much as we can for all our brothers and sisters.

News from the Vatican

GOD'S DREAM FOR MAN IS THE GREAT COMMANDMENT

Seeing the Great Commandment lived out would satisfy God's dream. Reflecting on the passage from the Gospel of St. Matthew, and Jesus giving the Great Commandment to love your neighbor as you love yourself.

When the Pharisees came together to put Jesus to the test, asking Him which commandment in the Law is the greatest, Francis observed it was an "insidious" question because in the Law of Moses more than 600 precepts are mentioned. "How can one distinguish, among all these, the great commandment?" he asked. However," he noted, "Jesus has no hesitation and answers: 'You shall love the Lord your God with all your heart, and with all your soul, and with all your mind.'" And adds: "You shall love your neighbor as yourself." Jesus' answer, the Holy Father noted, was not a given because, among the many precepts of the Jewish Law, the most important were the Ten Commandments, communicated directly by God to Moses, as conditions of the pact of the Covenant with the people. "However," he stressed, "Jesus wants it understood that without the love of God and of one's neighbor there isn't true fidelity to this Covenant with the Lord. You can do many good things, fulfill many precepts, many good things, but if you don't have love, it's all for nothing."

Jesus, Francis reminded, lived His life precisely preaching and doing what really counts and is essential, namely, love. "Love gives impetus and fruitfulness to life and to the journey of faith: without love, life and faith remain sterile." What Jesus proposes in this evangelical passage, the Pope noted, corresponds to the most authentic desire of our heart, namely that we were created to love and to be loved. "God, who is Love, has created us to make us participants in His life, to be loved by Him and to love Him and, with Him, to love other people. This is God's "dream" for man." However, to realize it, he said, we need His grace.

COURAGE & 'DIRTY HANDS' ARE NEEDED FOR GOD'S KINGDOM

For the Kingdom of God, courage and 'dirty hands' are needed. Pope Francis gave this reminder as he reflected on the day's Gospel, according to St. Luke. For the Kingdom of God, the Pope stressed, we must channel our inner strength. Even St. Paul, in his Letter to the Romans, highlights how many tensions there are in life. Yet, the Pontiff reminded, our sufferings 'do not compare to the glory that awaits us.' In the midst of such tensions there is "an immense expectation" of a "great revelation" of the Kingdom of God. This expectation, the Pope explained, belongs not only to us, but also to Creation, which, like us, 'is fallen.' The inner strength that "leads us to hope for the fullness of the Kingdom of God" is that of the Holy Spirit, Francis said, reminding that hope can enable us to surpass our limits and reach glory. "It is the Holy Spirit that is within us and brings this: this is a great thing, a liberation, a great glory. And for this reason, Jesus says," the Jesuit Pope recalled: 'Inside a mustard seed, that small grain, there is a force that triggers unimaginable growth.'" "Within us and in Creation," the Pope repeated, "there is a force that triggers [us]: it is the Holy Spirit," which "gives us hope.

The Pope went on to explain what it means to live in hope. Calling hope the 'most humble' and 'servant' virtue, the Pope rebuked those who preach the Kingdom of God, but who avoid 'getting dirty,' whom he called 'museum custodians.' Pope Francis concluded, reminding that where there is hope, there is the Holy Spirit, and this helps lead us to the Kingdom of God.
