Villa Cafaggio Chianti Classico

An incredible Italian red, rich in both history and flavour. Find out more...

Where is it from?

Villa Cafaggio is situated in the Conca d'Oro, a particular part of Chianti Classico near the town of Panzano. Over the past 15 years, there have been an impressive number of top-rated Tuscan wines emerging from this particular region.

What does the black cockerel on the bottle mean?
The iconic black cockerel seal means that the wine has been classified as Chianti Classico, which is a sub-region of Chianti and top rung on the quality ladder. It's a stamp of approval.

What does it taste like?
Made from the classic Chianti grape, Sangiovese, from the superb 2009 vintage. Woven in with black cherry flavours are smooth, subtle oak and spice notes. Enjoy now or age for a further five to 10 years.

Who makes it?

Made by the Farkas family, who bought Villa Cafaggio back in 1967. The farm is hundreds of years old and Benedictine monks even made wine here as long ago as the 15th century!

What should I serve it with?
This would be an effortlessly good match for mushroom risotto or roast lamb. But the big flavours and favourable acidity also make it a great partner for slow-roasted pork belly.

Portugal's most famous wine export might be port but, as it turns out, port grapes make perfect pinks too. This one is packed with red berry flavours and a touch of spice. Brilliant with seared salmon or even lamb chops. Tesco Finest* Touriga Nacional Rosé 2011, Portugal, 13%

The Grenache grape makes wonderful rosé wines, and this one from the Languedoc region in southern France is a perfect example. Delicately pink and laced with subtle strawberry flavours, serve it chilled with lightly spiced dishes. Tesco Finest* Grenache Rosé 2012, France, 12.5%

Here's a New World rosé, made from the Malbec grape. The colour is a beautiful deep pink – and the flavours match up to it with layers of red cherry that go on and on. Perfect with grilled chicken covered in herbs. Tesco Finest* Malbec Rosé 2011, Argentina, 13.5%

The thick-skinned Nero d'Avola grape makes robust, delicious reds. But here is its take on rosé, brightly coloured and filled with lovely strawberry flavours. This is a great match for fishcakes or simple pasta dishes. Tesco Finest* Nero d'Avola Rosé 2012, Italy, 12.5%

Not only does this wine stand out for its incredible jewel-like colour, but the flavour matches it for impact. Packed with juicy strawberries, with real freshness and vibrancy, this makes a fantastic partner to a plate of antipasti. Tesco Finest* Navarra Rosé 2012, Spain, 12.5%

A lesson in how to do Bordeaux rosé well. Delicately fresh and fruity, this is a delicious blend of Cabernet Franc, Cabernet Sauvignon and Merlot. It shines with bright berry flavours and works a treat with chilli-flecked linguine. Tesco Finest* Domaine de Sours Rosé 2011, France, 12.5%
