MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT

We have completed the first three programs of the 2011-2012 lecture series and hope you have enjoyed them. It should be noted that all three presenters were previously unknown to our Round Table. We will continue to bring you new, interesting and relevant subjects. I am sure you will agree that our November speaker, Dr. James K. Hogue, was excellent. When we called him to request he discuss General Lee’s efforts in the Lowcountry, he indicated he was working on a book about the end of the war. In spite of this current focus, Dr. Hogue constructed his presentation especially for us. I think this speaks to the respect that the academic community has of the LCWRT.

I will pass on to you that some time ago, I read Dr. Hogue’s book on the reconstruction period. I regard it as the most definitive information about the subject.

The Executive Committee met last Friday and I can report that that the organization, at this point in time, is in very good shape. Membership is about at the same level as usual for this time of year - we tend to increase membership in January and end the program year at almost 330 members. The number of attendees at the last meeting was almost two hundred which is above average. The food continues to get excellent reviews. In fact Dr. Hogue’s wife asked, “Do you always have this high quality of food? I think I will come back for this!!” Our financial position continues to be in good shape.

I am looking forward to your attendance at the Civil War Sesquicentennial Commemoration events beginning on December 1st. Thank you to those who have volunteered to help make these events a success.

I am writing this on my way to Japan to see my grandkids and will spend Thanksgiving with them. As always, if you have any questions or want to express your opinions, call me at 843-681-1956 or e-mail me at chrisdenterprise@adelphia.net. Thank you, Chris D. Clayton

SESQUICENTENNIAL SPECIAL PRICING FOR DECEMBER 1-4, 2011 EVENTS

Since the LCWRT is a co-sponsor of the Sesquicentennial Commemoration events which will be held December 1-4, 2011, our membership is entitled to a significant price reduction for the events. Those members receiving the Minie Ball Gazette by e-mail have already received an e-mail (Subject: Sesquicentennial Commemoration Events Pricing, dated November 12, 2011) providing the reduced pricing information. Those receiving the Minie Ball Gazette by "snail" mail will have an insert with this Minie Ball Gazette containing the information about the reduced prices and how you, as a LCWRT member, can take advantage of them when making reservations/purchasing tickets for you and your friends. As indicated in the information, your reservations/purchases must be made through Elaine & John Monkaitis at 843-671-2236. Please carefully read the information before calling for your reservations. When you contact Elaine & John, you will be asked the specific event(s) in which you have an interest as well as your credit card number (VISA, MasterCard, or Discovery), your credit card verification code, and your telephone number. If you have any questions, please feel free to contact Elaine or John again at 843-671-2236.

We anticipate that the interest of the general public and these reduced prices will cause there to be aggressive advanced ticket purchases. We, therefore, encourage you to take advantage of the reduced prices as soon as possible to guarantee you will be able to attend the events.

NEW EXHIBIT EXPLORES RELIGION DURING THE CIVIL WAR

A new exhibit opened Oct. 7 at the South Carolina Confederate Relic Room and Military Museum, located in the Columbia Mills Building at 301 Gervais Street, Columbia, SC examining the experiences of chaplains, soldiers, and citizens while challenging guests to assess the similarities in the role that religion played for both Northerners and Southerners during the Civil War.

"Through Fiery Trials: Religion in the Civil War" will highlight Protestant, Catholic, and Jewish faiths and feature rare religious objects owned by some of the most storied figures from that war. The exhibit contains items on loan from the Diocese of Charleston Archives, including a special commission from Jefferson Davis to Bishop Patrick N. Lynch to serve as a special envoy to the Vatican, and vestments given to him while exiled in Europe during the war. Other items on display include Bibles that belonged to Generals Robert E. Lee and Stonewall Jackson, a crucifix carried into battle by General George Pickett of the famous Pickett's charge, a Jewish sweet meat bowl, and a soldier's Bible that was struck by a bullet and has the resulting hole through it.

Kristina Johnson, the exhibit curator, anticipates that museum visitors will walk away from this event with a different perspective on the role that religion played in the Civil War, something she said is often overlooked." But just as religion is a central part of our lives today, faith was key in sustaining men on the field, comforting women on the homefront, and healing a broken country struggling to rebuild itself," she said.

"Through Fiery Trials: Religion in the Civil War" will be on display through May 2012. Admission is included in general museum entry fees. For more information contact Kaela Harmon at 803-737-8094 or kharmon@crr.sc.gov. Information is also available on www.crr.sc.gov
