A SUCCESSION PLAN is a document that guides the governing board in planned or emergency departure of the chief executive officer or other key positions.

Planned succession is the retirement process of an executive director; emergency succession is unanticipated. A single document can address both aspects.

The goal is a seamless continuation of operations. The board has a responsibility to consider "what if we were without our CEO." Conversely, the CEO should keep the board informed of succession-retirement timelines and processes.

While the conversation of "who will take over when you leave" may seem harsh, in reality it is a compliment to recognize the value of the CEO and desire to protect him or her, and the organization.

Divide the plan into two parts: Planned and emergency succession.

The board and CEO must agree on the roles, responsibilities and values of the position, committing them to writing to guide the search for a replacement.

Determine who and how the search process will be managed. Who will have authority (interim director) during the succession.

Ensure that officers have access to the plan by providing a copy to the chief elected officer, and/or the board attorney or accountant.

An update of the succession plan should be a part of the annual performance review.
