Angela Frazier is the second grade teacher at Saint Patrick School. She grew up in England where she attended Catholic schools. "I value my own Catholic education, and it means a lot to me to teach in a Catholic school." Her mother, sister, and other relatives are also educators.

Angela graduated from London University. After moving to the U.S. she received a teaching degree from the University of Southern Maine. Angela lives in York, Maine, with her husband and two children. Both children attend St. Pats. In her spare time she enjoys watching basketball, especially her children's St. Pat's games, and the Boston Celtics.
