

NIGHT COMMITTEE

"If the 'Mats and Attractions jammed at a Mexican wedding and played soul and Husker Du covers, and Marc Ribot and Nina Simone happened to be guests at said wedding, and they got together that night and had love triplets who started a band, it would sound like Night Committee."

— Bug Incision (after hoisting a pint or 7 at the Ship and Anchor)

The throat and rhythm engine of Calgary post-punk stalwarts Hot Little Rocket (Andrew Wedderburn and Joel Nye, respectively), joined by scene vet Lorrie Matheson (Fire Engine Red, National Dust, Lorrie Matheson), have joined to make the sound of Cinco de Mayo as celebrated by the characters profiled in Michael Azerrad's "Our Band Could Be Your Life".

Wedderburn's wry humor and skewed but (com)passionate view of everyday life is front and centre as the band's lyricist and singer, and the three of them (Andrew on guitar, Joel on drums and Lorrie on keys) make a joyous racket, purposed to make you swagger, sway, and swing your hips across the dancefloor.

Night Committee released their debut album Crime on Western Famine records in August of 2012.

The Committee meets at night; they are in charge of the Night - and tonight Night Committee is yours.

Top Photograph: Brenda Bazylewski

Live Photographs: Arif Ansari

LISTEN AT WWW.NIGHTCOMMITTEE.COM