Good morning William,

The data you have requested are sourced from Queensland Police. We have liaised with Queensland Police and have obtained the following information.

Request:

- What was unclear was the actual number of male and female victims of violence (irrespective of race) who were in a family or domestic relationship with their perpetrator. Could you please provide these details?

Below are a count of reported victims of offences against the person in 2013–14, categorised by sex and relationship with their offender.

These data represent a count of reported victims of offences against the person. These data are not a count of distinct persons subject to these offences, as a person may be reported multiple times as a victim according to counting rules described at <https://www.police.qld.gov.au/corporatedocs/reportsPublications/statisticalReview/Documents/Explanatory%20Notes.pdf>.

Offences included in these data are:

- Homicide (Murder); Other Homicide (Attempted Murder, Conspiracy to Murder, Manslaughter (excl. by driving), Driving Causing Death);
- Assault (Grievous Assault, Serious Assault, Serious Assault (Other), Common Assault);
- Sexual Offences (Rape and Attempted Rape, Other Sexual Offences);
- Robbery (Armed Robbery, Unarmed Robbery);
- Other Offences Against the Person (Kidnapping & Abduction etc., Extortion, Stalking, Life Endangering Acts).

Note that not all offences against the person involve an act of violence against a victim.

Request:

- Could you also advise the actual number of male and female perpetrators of violence in a family or domestic relationship with their victim?

We are not able to provide a count of reported offenders by relationship status as relationship data are currently reported by victim, rather than offender. A count of reported offenders by sex and offence type can be found at <https://data.qld.gov.au/dataset/offender-numbers-qld-monthly-from-jan-2001>.

Reported victims of offences against the person in 2013-14
