

Dr. Lyle G. McNeal, Mini-Bio

Dr. Lyle G. McNeal, a Carnegie Professor, sheep and fiber specialist at Utah State University, worked on ranches in his youth, after college, served the sheep and wool producers for over 50 years. Has judged hundreds of county, state fairs and notable fiber festivals across the U.S. and Alaska. Doc is most recognized for rescuing from near extinction the Navajo-Churro sheep, starting in 1977 in forming the Navajo Sheep Project non-profit, which continues serving others today.