

Steiner is one of the great psychiatric minds of our era and his ingenious approach to conveying the complexity of our mental function delights and informs in equal measure. This is a very major contribution to the most important subject in psychodynamic thought relevant to all those interested in our psychology.

Peter Fonagy

Professor of Contemporary Psychoanalysis and Developmental Science University College London