

“Journey of the Universe: A Story for Our Times” (Yale University Online Classes, Open to the Public)

Mary Evelyn Tucker and John Grim are offering four six-week MOOCs (Massive Open Online Courses) at Yale through the online platform, Coursera. These are featured as a specialization under the theme of "Journey of the Universe: A Story for Our Times." This includes two courses on Journey of the Universe, a course on the Worldview of Thomas Berry, and an integrating capstone on Living Cosmology. Each of these courses can be taken independently. You may audit the courses free of charge and sign up at anytime. Learn more here.

Testimonials:

A truly insightful and enlightening course that will provide a clear understanding of the creation of the universe and of life in a scientific sense.

This is Big History meets the big picture of how humans ground and bring the knowledge of the Anthropocene back into our daily lives with purpose and meaning. Great course that combines head and heart!

This course is a must. There is just no other course that can nurture your spiritual yearnings within the framework of science. Take it. It's a wonderful course.

A profound intellectual journey. Take this course and immerse yourself in the beautiful nature of our universe.
