

His Videos Take Flight

April 3, 2006

In this high-tech age, Chris Doyle prefers a low-tech approach for his videos. You can see five of them at the MIT List Visual Arts Center Media Test Wall presentation of “Chris Doyle: Recent Videos Works.” The pieces include “Flight,” for which the Boston-born artist posed as Superman and performed 230 individual leaps, then sequenced the still photographs to show him flying out the window of his studio. Each of the videos turns everyday events into extraordinary, dreamlike visions, and you can see them 24/7 through May 30. Free. MIT’s Whitaker Building, 21 Ames St., Building 45 Cambridge, 617-253-4680.
web.mit.edu/lvac