Program

This year's symposium will be a celebration of the Western New England's 60th anniversary and a commemoration of Hans Loewald's work as innovator and pivotal contributor to modern psychoanalysis.

As Dr. Rosemary Balsam (2008) described, "The essence of Loewald's work resides in three spheres: the crucible of psychic creation as the mother and infant together, his acceptance of the most basic elements of our animal nature, such as the give-and-take of nurturance, strivings for independence, survival transformed as an integral part of his soaring account of the mind's capacity for creation and sublimation, and his account of the psyche as a moment-to-moment developmental achievement. Hans Loewald's ability to bring to life the preoedipal netherworld of narcissism and the id was a breakthrough in an era of clinically pejorative attitudes toward people with narcissistic psychopathology."

In this symposium three senior analysts will demonstrate how Loewald's work has illuminated their clinical experience:

- 1) Dr. Chodorow brings new, emotionally-expanded psychoanalytic dimensions to her eminent work on gender and sexuality. She elaborates and names a new psychoanalytic theory, intersubjective ego psychology, the American independent tradition.
- 2) Dr. Brett shares her work on trauma, organizational dynamics and contemporary psychoanalytic practice.
- 3) Dr. Balsam, an expert on gender studies, brings the culture of psychoanalytic ideas and the understanding of the mind's registration of the human body.

The audience will be encouraged to join in discussion with their own experiences and vignettes.
