2017 IPMS National Convention

Well another Nationals has come and gone. Our intrepid crew loaded into a minivan and began the trip on Tuesday July 22nd. Tom Gaston, Mike Moore, Ed Marcum, Buzz Pezold, Ken Niles and myself.

We rolled out of town and headed towards Omaha. Having six in the van made taking turns driving a snap. We overnighted at Kansas City. Tom Gaston has assured us he knew where we must eat.

It did not disappoint! It did have an effect on one of our number though!! The next morning we moved on to the spot and we got there in time to get our van unloaded,, checked-in (though it took a while at the hotel!!) and on to the convention. Vending came first as it should. I believe all of us found something the first hour.

All the while the contest room kept filling up with a lot of really nice models!! Thursday flew by fast as well. (Isn't that a thing about the nationals—Time Flies) Well it flies if you 're having fun. Our Mr. Moore had a rough time of it as he got sick. He was down for about a day and a half of the convention, but he rallied well at the times it counted. Thursday saw Mike Mattheiss, Jeff's Brother, join us from Nashville. Thursday's highlight was the visit to the SAC museum and a BBQ meal. Wish I had skipped the meal and just toured the museum. It was chocked full of stuff to see. Our team of course had the dual mission of enjoying the show and doing things to prep for our nationals in 2019. We attended the IPMS business meeting, attended another IPMS meeting where we heard how some of the things are set up. We also chatted with various people around the convention, took photos of how things were set up, and made a lot of notes! Omaha had a lot of volunteers helping out. These volunteers really help to make the show "work." Thursday morning we also found we had a flat tire on our van. A couple of hours side trip to a nice little tire shop and all was well. Thanks' again Tom for going with me! As for statistics. I heard that there were 2700 models and 740 registered modelers attending the show. Later I heard that number of models was 2160. Either way the room was full! There were 220 judges who judged models Friday night. Attendees came from Canada, Switzerland, Argentina, Brazil, French Polynesia, The UK and of course the USA. The nationals is always a good trip and always a good showing of models. It is more than a contest. It is "By Modeler....For Modelers" If you never been you really need to go to one! Speaking of going to one....Next year is Phoenix. We really need a good contingent from here going to the one next year as we'll be tee'd up for the 2019 show. It will be a good time for us to "shadow" and learn how to do things. I'll let these photos tell the rest of the story with a chart at the end showing who from our group won placed where.

Several of us made as a group on the night of Aug 1st it to the movie and we had a grand time!!! It was the second time for a few of us and I believe the second time around was even better than the first. If you haven't seen it run to the next opportunity!!

Tom Gaston found the photo above of the modified Yak-52 that was used to simulate the in-flight cockpit shots of the actors flying Spitfires. Note the IMAX Camera between the seats. I understand they alternated putting the star into the front and rear cockpit to get various angles. I suspect the sliding canopy could be relocated as needed. Note the Spitfire "exhaust" scabbard onto the side of a radial engine aircraft!

TRUMPETER 1/35 E-10 Tank Destroyer

By Jack Bruno

After 14 Months I finally got back into build mode. My hands still don't listen all that much but a little improvisation and S L O W work methods are starting to pay off and I have nine other kits on the bench that are all built and just need "The Works." THANK YOU all for your kind prayers/words and support. I still have a long way to go but doing well.....give me a year and I'll be Pole Dancing again!

The E-10 was a Paper Panzer that really was a Hetzer on steroids. Safe to say that for every Tiger II made you could have produced five or six of these. A very low profile that was difficult to detect in terrain and urban area's and packed a punch. Highly mobile and a speedy little sucker that could do tricks like rise and fire and get low again. I've seen models built of this little gem that sported the IR Gear just to make it even more interesting.

TRUMPETER released this many years ago and it's been sitting in my stash for years. Always wanted to do it and had the chance right before I decided to have a Heart Attack in the ER no less. It is a very simple and straight forward build that I did in about two days. The longest session took another two days because of the 110 tracks per side that needed to be cleaned up. TRUMPETER gives you early and late link to link plastic track as well as rubber band track, both early and late.....being a Paper Panzer I could not figure out why the early/late thing if it never existed, but I yield to the karma of Sci-Fi guys that think that stuff is real ;)

Just to give you a heads up. Now there are several sets made for this kit including metal track and main gun barrel. I'm thinking of doing a cool looking E-25 down the road so I am considering it. Truly this was the easiest kit I've built in years. I did add an electrical lead to the light, drilled out the machine gun and super glued the PE screens on the upper hull. Down to the hooch to paint!

I primed the entire finished kit with Tamiya Flat Black from the spray can. Using my Paasche H to apply the base coat was a snap and I decided on three different dark yellows for tone/depth. I wanted a kit that POPPED so I did a striped version with red brown and light green. In addition to that I intentionally did an over spray of the colors. I wanted it to look like it was IN THE FIELD applied. After all this was done the next step was painting the tools and tow cables, exhaust and machine gun. It came out well and I followed all of these steps with a Future Gloss Coat. The Decals were out of the spare bin and I placed numbers on front plate and rear.....never mind.....and Crosses on the side. Not too large as it was a small tank. I used Solvaset to snuggle them down and finished with another Future coat. I let it go for a week and then started my washes. removal of the film was done with brushes this time as my lil killa was too small for the cotton pantie trick. When it was the tone I wanted I gave it a few misting coats a Flat. I used MM this day just to be different. MIGMENTS followed and after Russian Earth and Europe Blend I applied Tamiya Thinner with a dropper to seal it up. I dry Brushed with Oils after and there ya go!!!

I had a ball with the kit and will be testing the paper panzer waters again. See you next time and it sure is nice to be back!!!!
