

Modern British Literature Syllabus

2010-2011 Academic Year

Caedmon Tutorials are 34 weeks long. Below are the readings for the upcoming academic year. At the bottom of the syllabus, you'll find links to sites where you can purchase the course texts. Miss Thompson will also be providing additional readings to you in a PDF format a week before the start of your course. Included in this package will also be essay writing guidelines.

Your Assignments

In addition to weekly readings, each student will also be responsible for the following:

- three (3) essays (1000-1500 words) due at the end of each term (except the short Lent Term)
- four (4) timed writings which will be conducted outside of class hours on a site called "Classmarker" (details to follow). These timed writings will be short responses to questions or passages based on readings to that point. They are intended to help you develop your ability to think and write about literature in a succinct manner.
- one (1) presentation: once classes begin, you will have an opportunity to sign up to lead a discussion on a text or portion of a text of your choice. Details to follow.
- Common Room contributions: after each class, you will have from that day to the next class to contribute your thoughts, questions, concerns, observations, etc. to your class's forum. The forum is accessed via the Caedmon Tutorial website under the "Student" section. This will be a lively place for you to engage with your classmates and tutor outside class time as you delve into the literature.

Note: All texts marked with an asterisk () are to be found in the Additional Readings Package provided for you in PDF.*
