TWA Welcomes Mike Payst

Tuesday

October 21st, 2014

6:55 PM

at the Woodworking Shop
3141 Capital Boulevard, Raleigh, NC

Several members meet at 6:00pm at Buffalo Brothers Pizza & Wings for dinner prior to the meeting. Please join us!

Topic: Vises

This program is about making your own wooden jawed vises with metal hardware such as the Moxon-style vise shown here.

In the past few years I have designed and built leg vises, an auxiliary vise, and the latest is the Moxon-style vise shown above. This Moxon-style design is useful for dovetailing wide panels and much more including holding long tapered objects up to about a 10 degree taper.

I will cover my design thinking, hardware selection, construction methods, special tooling, plus which ideas worked and also those that did not work so well. Vises will be on display for hands-on.

Host: Jeff Leimberger

Diane's TidBits

It hit me pretty hard when I read the meeting minutes and I was called the "occasional President". Ouch!! Unfortunately the description is on point.

Because of my current medical situation I have indeed been an occasional president. For that, I do apologize. It is not my intention to be "occasional". As this is my second term as top dog of this great club.. it should be better that the first run. I am working toward that .. I promise you! I have two more specialist to see in the next few weeks. I pray, pray, pray one or both of them are going to figure something out to give me some relief and allow me some sort of quality of life. If you have never experienced chronic pain, you have no idea how it will change your very existence. I have always prided myself on the fact that I was the busiest person I knew. Now, I cannot make long term plans because I do not know until the morning if I am going to be able to function that day. The hardest part is that I cannot sit, I cannot sit to partake of a meal with my family, I cannot sit at the computer and type emails, facebook notes, letters, surf the web, or complete the TWA newsletter. Life has become very difficult and I am doing my best to hold on to HOPE. I can be a great TWA president, I was once before and please join me in the hope that the medical professionals can find something to help me soon so I can take my life back into my control and I can be a great TWA president once again!

Till next time...

Diane

Finishing by: Jay Cash - Nov 18th

Jay Cash will be teaching us about the art & science of finishing furniture. Some of you will remember Jay from his days working at Klingspor. Others may have attend one of the classes he taught on finishing while working there. Jay has more knowledge about finishing in his little finger than some of us, well me anyway, have in our entire body.

Jay is now working for Finish Pros of Raleigh. Finish Pros specialize in furniture restoration and upholstery. Here you not only know how to finish new furniture you must also be able to match the finishes of 100+ years ago. <http://www.finishpros.com>

Come -- be entertained -- and learn.

The following is from Finish Pros website. Here is what Jay has to say about himself.

I'm Jay, the Shop Manager here at Finish Pros. I have over 35 years of woodworking, furniture making, and finishing experience. Early in my career, I began working in the carpentry field and later developed a passion for furniture making. I have studied the art of furniture making and design with Master Craftsmen around the world. I still enjoy advancing this knowledge through intensive woodworking and finishing classes around the country. This helps me provide critical guidance to our shop staff throughout the finishing process. In my free time, I still enjoy woodworking if you can believe it. When I'm not doing that, I am spending time with family and enjoying my grandchildren.

Host: Fred Ford

Meeting Minutes

August 2014

Fred Ford opened the meeting. Diane Philyaw occasional President who was not able to attend because of health issues she is dealing with.

Visitors were recognized, Ryan, Angela, & Carl (woodcarvers). They were moved to attend by the topic of spoon carving. Charlie Main reminded us he was a wood destroyer and would be happy to act as a mentor to those interested!

Announcements:

Jeff Leimberger announced that next month's speaker is Michael Fortune, arguably Canada's best known woodworker. Our meeting will be on a Friday (October 24 at 7pm) to accommodate the workshop that our speaker will lead. Workshop dates are October 25th - 26th, Saturday and Sunday respectively. Contact Jeff if interested; his e-mail is jleimberger@nc.rr.com. Cost is $100. We will open up the sign up to the public if the club members do not fill the workshop spots by next week.

Pete Bucki announced that he is still in the process of raffling off the $250 Klingspor Gift Certificate, to benefit Toys for Tots. He is selling $50 tickets for $10 each. Also raffling off 6 kits tonight as well (table, cradle etc). He also has 4 years of Fine Woodworking to auction. He has a large lathe (donated to the club) to sell, along with many turning tools (all are at his house now or will be soon), and this is a huge bargain. Let him know if you want to check it out.

Toys for Tots workshops have started already, there are already 12 workshops revving up now.

Show & Tell:

We had a wonderful show and tell from Leon Harkins, he had carved a kinetic fish out of the side of a turned buckeye bowl.

Program:

Jay Speetjens is back to speak to us on carving. Jay is the coordinator of the woodworking program at Rockingham Community College. He claims to have been obsessively carving spoons for a year now! I'm pretty sure he has been after observing him in action during the lulls in his talk. His hands could not remain still. He is using the Swedish method of carving, which is a nice change from the French methods of woodworking, I had thought they invented the medium. He combines sculpture with ergonomics and finding the spoon hidden in a block of wood is a quick project. One point of design critical to note when bringing your creation to life is that the handle of the spoon rises but never should curve down or it does not look or feel right. The recipe is simple, you need a block of wood, an ax, and an idea. Then one small knife and some carving tools. Jay is a believer in a hands on demo. He started with a small wet log, made a rectangular blank from the log and drew the profile on the face and the side, then chop away. Work from the middle like Abe Lincoln.

Sometimes you can find a crook of wood that lends itself to the spoon. Once you have the blank, you draw your spoon on and chop off the excess. We watched Jay winnow his blank down with a (sharp) ax. His was sharp enough to use as a chisel too. After the spoon is cut down, Jay studies the grain and decides where the bowl of the spoon should be carved. His favorite woods to make spoons from are dogwood, apple, cherry, and possibly redbud. And I quote, "the challenge is not the wood it is the talent or skill of the craftsman". After the basic form is achieved, Jay works on the bowl with a gauge. The neck of the spoon is narrow BUT thick and the handle may be very thin. It was a little alarming to see him cutting the wood off, holding the spoon against his chest, and cutting toward himself! This activity may be restricted by your gender.

Refreshments were hosted by John Zatti, a new member who has stepped up to the plate of volunteering. Mike Payste held the usual raffle, won by Larry W. Pete Bucke started the Toys for Tots fundraising auction with a Tuckaway table (sold $25) to Harrell Bunch, a serving tray ($10) to Fred Ford. We graduated to the oak bread box ($11), to Jack Kite, who also snapped up a Candlestand ($25), and a Ladies Jewelry box for ($20). Jack must really love Toys for Tots! All were huge bargains. Why shop anywhere else? A heavy duty portable vise went for $25 to Larry. Metal sawhorses ($20) to a new member John. Terry bid $5 for Fine Woodworking magazines.

While the auction was going on, Jay was thinning the spoon and getting it to feel good. He ends up with very fine cuts to refine the shape and sometimes does not have to sand. The shovel shape he usually makes at the end of the spoon is more of a Swedish style if you recall. You don't find many/ or any old spoons laying around because they were worn out due to hard usage. Jay mentioned that he finishes with Walnut oil-Mahoney's finish, (heat treated filtered walnut oil). Mahoney's also makes a compound with Beeswax.

Rockingham Community College is in Reidsville NC, in Rockingham County. Jay has 40 students this semester in his continuing education classes. They have furniture & turning classes as well as a small case class. The classes are typically a semester long but the college also offers weekend events on occasion. # 2014 Toys for Tots News

"Bittersweet October ... the mellow, messy, leaf-kick-ing, perfect pause between the opposing miseries of summer and winter"

In September I visited the second of twelve workshops we have in production this year. It is in the home of Cecil Raynor. This is Cecil's seventh year of quality production. Cecil has always leaned toward high end toys. Last year his group turned out American Doll beds. American Doll sold ones of lesser quality for over $100.

This year his team is aiming at a Doll Cradle. They started with a OK sample and are now on their forth prototype. Prototype three is shown below and is excellent by most of our standards, but this team aims for perfection.

During the design phase a lot of time is spent on manufacturability, that is making it easy to cut out and assemble. They also want to make the best use of the available materials. Mike Payst has jumped in to help and is on his -- well -- I don't know what number of prototype he is on - maybe five, creating a vise for the project. His dedication to excellence goes into toys just as much as wood vices and it shows.

An added feature is bedding for the dolls to lay on. Making these are three and non members, Jean Payst, Patty Taylor, and Bonnie Hurley. A huge Thank nYou goes out to each of the ladies!

Most of you know these folks in the pictures, but for those that do not the first gentleman is our host Cecil Raynor, followed by Mike

I will be visiting as many more workshops as I can to give you some flavor of what is going on. Since we have twelve workshops in production I don't think I will be able to get to all of them.

We have 51 skilled individuals working in these workshops. I continue to hope there are a few of you that I do not know about making one or two toys to add to the happiness of a child in need on Christmas morning.
