What they should do is just turn over the EC decisions to me. I have never been in more of a mood to be a dictator!

No need to trouble yourself over the blogs. When I said crap I meant real crap instead of just the offensive bullshit that MM usually posts.

In response to the piece on the AT about the EC (from today) it's poor harvie who has never even seen a punctuation mark or a capital letter and reads as though he's writing it drunk and then some nonsense from someone in NC (you know the election integrity community membership whack jobs...) and poor poor EM disguised as some other bitch.....I mean someone else.

The terrible sadness of it all leads me to believe MM's either done or really really tired. She looked awful last night and I was really surprised she didn't come back after the Exec.

I hear there's a rift in the red ant......

Like that would be surprising after MM threw EM under the bus. I used to never use that phrase.....

OH, AND NO TO AIRING THE IMAGES IN FUTURE OR STRINGS. I NEVER THOUGHT I'D SAY IT BUT THERE'S SUCH A THING AS TOO MUCH TRANSPARENCY.

And here's why. Only crazy people (regardless of whether they are nice or not) would be interested and the MEAN crazy people will use the information to bad ends--as we've had demonstrated. And the regular folk don't know what to think.

And as to how we vote in future--I really don't care. I've told Rob Richie (Fairvote) for months that Aspen doesn't deserve IRV. It's too good a system for us. It's too intelligent and we really want to fight like the mean nasty selfish people we are.....

I think the EC will have some good issues to deal with. If we continue to have IRV, there will need to be some adjustments. Do we show the images to the public? Do we shuffle the ballots and the strings (if they are released to the public), etc.
