

RIDGEVILLE FARMERS' MARKET

“Buy Local” Pre-Order Delivery Option

Wednesdays, 2018

June 6 - October 3 (NO market July 4th)

What is it?

An opportunity for residents to “buy local” and avoid a mid-week trip to the supermarket for fresh fruits and vegetables.

Why do this?

Supporting local farmers helps build sustainable communities and helps reduce Evanston’s overall carbon footprint.

How does it work?

Evanston Residents commit to buying approximately $20 worth of fresh produce for a certain number of weeks. Every Wednesday, between the hours of 4:30-6pm, they will receive a biodegradable box filled with 4 different fruit and vegetable offerings from local growers who participate in Ridgeville’s Farmers’ Market. These items will be delivered to residents at their homes.

How do I know what kind of fruits/vegetables I will receive?

The assortment of produce will be based on the seasonal offerings of our growers. There will be an opportunity for buyers to “veto” a fruit or vegetable due to a particular preference or food allergy, however, they will not be able to make a specific grocery list of items to receive.

What if I don’t like the offerings I receive?

We will do our best to ensure that all of the items you receive are of the comparable (or better) quality of those you might find at a supermarket. With regards to the specific offerings, however, buyers must be willing to sample a variety of fruit and vegetable options, and cannot be too picky about whether or not they receive a specific item on a given week. Needless to say, flexibility is a requirement for participating in this program.

Does this mean that the Farmers’ Market is turning into some sort of co-op?

Not at all. The Farmers’ Market will continue to operate from 3:30’ dusk on Wednesday afternoons. We want the Market to be an event in which neighbors, farmers, vendors, non-profits, and artists can interact in a festive atmosphere that strengthens our bonds as a community. The pre-ordering system is designed primarily for people who aren’t currently able to physically take advantage of the Market’s offering and have desire to buy local and support local growers.
