Mission Statement
(Life Principles)

I am a man of integrity with an incessant desire to live life based on success principles. The most important of these is that God loves me. Because of this:

Love is the driving force of my existence. I recognize it as the only true ameliorating agent in this world. I am learning how to love myself more each day.*

Discipline, most aptly defined as the constant human awareness of the need to act (B.J. Tatum, '97), is my alias. It is the indispensable construct of progress.*

Balance is the formidable foe of immaturity that is becoming my dearest companion.*

I spend time daily in prayer expecting Christ to direct me in all that I do and say. Because of His direction there are some things that I cannot do.

My family is priority. They are my most precious gifts from God as it regards human relationships. As their servant leader I am not intimidated by the sacrifices of Christian headship.

Friendship means a lot to me. I will be faithful in all such relationships*

I am ever learning to work hard and to play as hard as I work.

Justice is a focal point of my work, however my role is limited. God allows me to participate in shining a light on injustice, but reserves the authority to commence change Himself. In this regard it is critical for me to remember that regardless of the situation, He is in charge.*

My mind must be well prepared. I will not neglect the need for focused concentration on a daily basis.

I recognize that financial management is a clear indicator of discipline and integrity.
