WE VISIT YOU AT HOME

So Sad!

I am writing these notes at the very beginning of May. It is a beautiful bright sunny morning and very still – the birds are singing wonderfully. I was thrilled to hear the cuckoo early on May 1st – great to know he is back and singing in Yarnton.

Sometimes, my husband and I bike into Woodstock and, having season tickets for Blenheim, often bike through the gates. Although not allowed to bike round the park, it's a great feeling biking through the Palace grounds and seeing the beauty of the lake and parkland - we sometimes stop for a coffee at the Palace. On our last visit we were amazed to see swallows flying around and preparing to nest in an archway right above the entrance to the Palace. Can't be bad, flying all the way back from Africa and then staying at Blenheim Palace for the summer!

Not all good news though... In just one week I was really saddened by what we humans do to nature.

I noticed that cowslips had multiplied alongside the cycle track going to Woodstock and was very tempted to pick one – but resisted. The very next day the whole lot had been mown down – I could have cried. The next day I was going to pick some beautiful apple blossom hanging over a wall near Begbroke Priory but couldn't reach it. The following day they were all cut down - I could not believe it!!!

Further up the road near Bladon roundabout, I had been watching and hearing the birds as they prepare to build nests and raise young – especially the whitethroat that have returned to the bushes and shrubs near the wall. To my utter horror, as I biked, a great tractor was cutting down all the bushes – I couldn't even look.

How sad this all is – when nature works so hard to survive and carry on – but can be wiped out in minutes!

Still, the orchids and cowslips are out in our meadow, so I will go and enjoy their beauty and continue to look after and protect them.

Ellen Cocking

Note from Editor: And the cowslips on the road out of Yarnton towards Cassington, just past the chicane, were mown down only a week after they started to bloom!

The 'newbies' stole the show at Oxford Golf Club on Sunday 27th April. There was a fantastic turnout of 20 members at this popular course. Last group out and playing in the same four ball, newcomers Gary Langford and Adam Wells both shot an impressive 40 points with Gary taking first prize on countback, Adam taking second. Both will find their handicaps severely reduced! Third came Ben Davies shooting 32 points, with Sam White taking fourth with 29 points, again on countback. Two nearest the pins were won by Ben and Scott Radley, with Gary also winning nearest the pin in two. Captain Pete Wakefield added a new dimension with hidden pairs, and needless to say Gary again came up trumps with Ricky as his secret partner - total points scored an impressive 67.

Yarnton W.I.

We can look forward to a very interesting and entertaining talk this month from Garth Lewis, a retired auctioneer, who will tell us about his experiences.

We meet in the Village Hall on Thursday 12th at 7.45 p.m. and visitors are always welcome.

Tea hostesses are Gwyneth Stone, Doris Tresise and Julie Walters.

Unfortunately the planned outing to Stonor Park in August has had to be cancelled due to lack of support. Our thanks go to Rosemary who has done so much planning for this trip, all to no avail.

We do however have a couple of other events coming up, so make a note of the dates in your diaries:

9th July. Summer meal at a venue to be decided.

14th August. Treasure Hunt around the village, ending with refreshments at Sheila Westall's.

Both these ideas were suggested in our survey of members last year and received a positive response, so we hope they will be well supported.

reminisce with us, and enjoy a 2-course meal with wine for only £12.50 each. Advance booking essential. Box Office:

St Bartholomews
 THE CHURCH OF ENGLAND
Yarnton
the Benefice of Blenheim

Team Vicar: The Reverend Nathan Jarvis, tel. 01865 849352, 26 Church Lane, Yarnton

There are two things we are told not to discuss at a party: religion and politics. You may think this is good advice. It seems David Cameron thinks differently. He has now publicly made several speeches about this very subject, and is commenting widely on the state of the country as he sees it. We are still, apparently, a Christian country, and all the political leaders agree. Religion and politics are very much entwined with our sense of morality and well-being. Religion, and specifically Christianity is also at the heart of Britain.

We have known for a long time that people who are involved in their community, especially members of active congregations, fair best in all sorts of polls. We are happier, have better mental health, have lower blood pressure and even have longer lives. Perhaps this is reason enough to start coming to church. Discuss!

For those of us who are either religious or political or both, we already know this. Religion is completely tied up with politics, and specifically political action. If we believe in a man called Jesus who challenged the authorities, told the leaders that almost everything they were doing was wrong, who marched into the equivalent of Christchurch Cathedral and overthrew the tables, who contradicted everything traditional society taught about the role of women and disabled people, we must conclude, surely, that this had something to do with politics.

Religion is politics. Simple. All those years ago, when society saw injustice and poverty, especially in the north of England, it was bishops and parish priests who led the marches, organised petitions, and even chained themselves to the railings of their own churches. It was the Salvation Army who went out into the streets in the dead of night and fed the poor and marginalised. The Christian Church was at the centre of political action, and the government sat up and listened.

Where is the church today? Well, still on the front line working for those who are dejected and unwanted, just as the lepers were who Jesus touched and healed.

In our beautiful village it is hard to imagine the poverty that is suffered by so many throughout the world. As I type, the Yarnton Bell Ringers are ringing a special Bank Holiday peal. I can't imagine many scenes and sounds more beautiful and quintessentially English. But our little church has had a colourful past, with controversy and its fair share of politically active parish priests. A delve into the archives shows a church mixing religion and politics with every act of kindness and charity. The work goes on.

NETBALL

Kidlington (Yarnton & Begbroke) Netball Club has club night on Tuesdays at Rutten Lane Recreation Ground, Yarnton from 7 p.m. - 8.30 p.m., with new players always welcome. The sessions are suitable for beginner/returner players as well as the regular club members, and offer a relaxed atmosphere to try out the sport, usually with a qualified coach. Players can attend three sessions free of charge, after which membership has to be taken in order to satisfy Governing Body regulations. The Winter season ended with our A team coming 2nd in their division, giving them promotion to the Premier Division – a tremendous achievement for the club; the B team narrowly missed promotion and so retain their Division Three placing, with the C team also maintaining their Division 5 placing. Spectators at matches at the Arena, Marston are very welcome. We plan to run three teams in the Summer league which commenced in mid May.

U16, U14, U12 and Highfive sessions are supported with six teams playing in the Oxfordshire Junior Winter League on Sunday mornings which ended in April; however training continues throughout the year. Please contact Tess tessa.horn@gmail.com for further information on our junior sessions.

Whatever your age, if you are thinking that netball could be a fun and fitness activity which you might like to participate in - do consider coming along to our club. For updated information please contact: Club Secretary - Laura - kidlington.netball@hotmail.co.uk. or Sue Blackshaw, tel. 377220.

We have our second coach trip of the season on Saturday 21st to Coton Manor Gardens in Northamptonshire, leaving at 1 p.m. We have visited these lovely gardens before with the club, and they are well worth seeing. Please contact John Cherry on 373083 for further details.

Sobell House

Volunteers crucially support Sobell House in providing high quality, personal and compassionate care to the Oxfordshire community – will you join us?

Sobell House is a hospice which provides expert care and support to those suffering with an advanced, progressive disease for whom prognosis is limited. We work with patients, their families and close friends to enable the patient to minimize the effects of their disease, maximise their quality of life, and where possible, to prepare for their death. Sobell House commits to listen and work in partnership with each patient so that their unique situation and individual preferences can be understood. There are many volunteering roles across Sobell which are undertaken by individuals who can offer varying skills, experience or time. Could you be a volunteer driver, ensuring that patients can access the hospice services and relieve the pressure of organising transport? Mileage incurred throughout this role is financially reimbursed. Are you green-fingered and willing to join our team of volunteers to keep the gardens vibrant and welcoming? Are you able to listen sensitively to patients and families, or organise activities for the Day Services?

Sobell House is looking to recruit new volunteers for roles across the hospice. We provide a structured induction programme, including communication skills training alongside the shadowing of experienced volunteers, and ask that each volunteer commit for at least 12 months. Travel expenses are available. Support your local hospice, develop new skills, join our friendly team.

To express your interest please call Rebecca Norris on 01865 225868 or email rebecca.norris@ouh.nhs.uk. You can find out more about Sobell House on our website: www.sobell-house.org.uk

Attracting Ladybirds to a garden

I was asked the other day, 'I know ladybirds eat aphids but what vegetables do I grow to attract them to my veg garden?'

Well, as with all wildlife you need to provide food, water, shelter, somewhere to roost/breed and hibernate, so on its own a veg plot is unlikely to be enough. What does matter is what's going on in the rest of your garden and the wider community in which your garden is set.

Plants with umbrella-shaped flowers attract ladybirds, so in the herb garden, dill, feverfew, statice or fennel may work, or try cosmos, or coreopsis in the flower border. Avoiding using any pesticides is a great tip alone; most pesticides kill ladybirds too. Ladybirds living a year can consume 5000 aphids, so they are effective in themselves at combating the aphids in your plot.

Nettles are the preferred egg laying plant for ladybirds and that's where you'll be able to watch the strange-looking larvae as well.

For hibernation, ladybirds gather in a large group, often amongst the stems of perennial flowers and ornamental grasses such as pampas grass. So leave the pruning back of these types of plants until well into spring when the ladybirds have emerged. If you've spent the entire summer attracting them, hibernation zones are key to having them return the following year.

It may appear counterproductive, but leaving aphids and pests alone will help with attracting ladybirds. Decoy plants that will attract aphids may help in keeping your desired plants aphid free until the ladybirds appear. Plants that can be used as aphid attracting decoys include early cabbages, nasturtiums or radishes. The easier you make it for ladybirds to find food and water and all the other things they need, the faster they will realize your garden is where they should stay.

With these tips, attracting and more importantly, keeping ladybirds in your garden can be easy. You can enjoy the benefits of attracting ladybugs all summer.

Happy Gardening.

Electoral Review of Cherwell: The independent Local Government Boundary Commission for England is carrying out an electoral review of Cherwell District Council (CDC). The review will draw new Council Ward boundaries across the District. The Commission has also announced that it is minded to recommend that 48 councillors should be elected to the Council in future: two fewer than the current arrangement. Now we are asking for evidence about your local area to help us decide a new pattern of Council Wards for CDC. Local people know their area best. That's why we are asking you for evidence on a range of issues: Do you have suggestions about where your ward boundaries should be? Which areas do you identify as your local community? Where do people in your area go to access local facilities such as shops and leisure activities? For more details and interactive maps, visit www.consultation.lgbce.org.uk or www.lgbce.org.uk. Send your views to: The Review Officer (Cherwell)), Local Government Boundary Commission for England, Layden House, Turnmill Street, London, EC1M 5LG. Email: reviews@lgbce.org.uk, Follow us on Twitter: @LGBCE. The consultation closes on 7th July 2014.
