

MANCHESTER
1824

The University of Manchester

JEWISH HISTORICAL SOCIETY LECTURE

PHILIP ALEXANDER

Professor Philip Alexander (Emeritus Professor of Post-Biblical Jewish Literature, Fellow of the British Academy, and President of the Jewish Historical Society of England) will give a talk on Non-Jew Looks at Jewish History: Fifty Years Studying and Teaching Judaism

THE CENTRE FOR JEWISH STUDIES

The Jewish Historical Society Manchester Branch, partnering with The Centre for Jewish Studies, The University of Manchester, presents its first lecture of 2019.

After closing in 2012, the Manchester branch of the Jewish Historical Society is being revived and will run on a monthly basis throughout the coming year.

The first talk will be on:

Wednesday 30th January 2019 at 7:30pm

Room A113 of the Samuel Alexander Building, The University of Manchester.

Entry free for JHS members and students (£3 entry fee for non-members)

The administration of the revived Jewish Historical Society Manchester branch is being handled by one of the Centre's

PhD students, Lawrence Rabone. He can be contacted in the case of questions or to sign up for the JHS Manchester mailing list at:

jhsmanchester@gmail.com