Catalog Description
A study of the numerous perimeter or alternative religious movements in American religious history. Along with their beliefs and practices, attention is given to the historical and sociological factors that have contributed to the flourishing of such groups in America. Includes a survey of contemporary “cult” movements.

Course Narrative & Rationale
“Religions on the perimeter,” “alternative altars,” “fringe religions,” and “New Religious Movements” (NRM’s) (as well as “cults” and “sects”) are some of the descriptions that have been applied to the numerous movements in American history that have deviated significantly from the Christian “mainstream” embraced by most religious Americans. Such groups are an important part of the historical development of religious life in the United States.
This course is designed to survey some of the more important alternative, perimeter, or new religious groups (especially those with Christian roots and close connections to Christian tradition) which have appeared with regularity in America from the seventeenth century up to the present time. The origins, development, and principal beliefs and practices of these groups are examined, along with the various factors that contribute to the formation and appeal of such groups in different historical contexts. Also, some attention is given to a variety of theological, legal, and pastoral issues raised by the presence of such groups in American society. Methods of teaching and learning utilized in this course include lecture, class discussion, reading, reflection and writing, experiential visits to places of worship or gathering related to religious groups examined in the course, and watching and reflecting upon videos and other online resources that address and illuminate important dimensions of the course.

Degree Objectives

This course directly addresses concerns articulated in the goals and objectives of all NTS degree programs, which call for students to develop an understanding of the history and heritage of the Christian faith as well as familiarity with the context in which ministry takes place today. Among these are:

M.Div

3. “Development of wisdom and discernment through engagement with the literature of the Christian faith through critical, scholarly study of the history and theology of Christianity and the application of that heritage to personal and corporate Christian life.”

5. “Understanding of local and global diversity through the investigation of cultural contexts, to enable the Church to proclaim effectively and to embody the mission of God.”

B. MACFD

3. “A discernment of the various aspects and cultural contexts that influence people and their growth along the life course, in order to design appropriate ministry strategies that form persons into ongoing faithful disciples.”

5. “A cultivation of practices and abilities necessary for skillfully discipling the people of God, guiding relationship in the church, and engaging in theological discernment of sound educational practice.”

C. MAICS

1. “Knowledge of the Christian faith understood in its biblical foundations, historical developments, and theological expressions.”

3. Understanding of the factors that constitute the contexts in which the Church participates in the missio Dei.”
D. MATS

2. “Knowledge of the major theological disciplines and their interrelationships.”

3. “Ability to use the theological disciplines to reflect on and engage the world as informed, thinking, Christian persons.”

Course Outcomes

Conscientious investment of oneself in the learning activities of the course should enable students to:

1. Acquire familiarity with important “cults,” “sects,” and “New Religious Movements” in the United States (demonstrated through posts, critical reflection essays, reviews, and examinations)

2. Gain knowledge of the broad history of such movements in America (demonstrated primarily through posts, critical reflection essays, reviews, and examinations)

3. Develop understanding of such groups as something more than simply odd, weird, deviant, or aberrant – rather, as religious systems that provide a coherent and meaningful way for their adherents to order and live their lives (demonstrated through posts, critical reflection essays, reviews, and examinations)

4. Understand the important factors (both historical and contemporary) that encourage the formation of “alternative” religions, and reasons why some people are attracted to and join these kinds of groups (demonstrated through posts, critical reflection essays, and examinations)

5. Gain awareness of important theological, legal, and pastoral issues related to the presence and influence of “cult” type religious groups in American society (demonstrated through posts, critical reflection essays – especially on UNDERSTANDING NEW RELIGIOUS MOVEMENTS by John A. Saliba – reviews, and examinations)

6. Develop a growing ability to relate as a Christian (minister) to contemporary alternative religious movements and their adherents in an informed, sensitive, and redemptive manner (demonstrated initially through posts, critical reflection essays, reviews, and examinations – but only demonstrated fully over time in future ministry)

Required Texts & Course Materials

1. MYSTICS AND MESSIAH: CULTS AND NEW RELIGIONS IN AMERICAN HISTORY, Philip Jenkins.

2. UNDERSTANDING NEW RELIGIOUS MOVEMENTS (2nd edition), John A. Saliba.
3. NEW RELIGIOUS MOVEMENTS AND THE THEOLOGICAL IMAGINATION IN AMERICA, Mary Farrell Bednarowski.

4. THE MORMONS, Thomas F. O’Dea (out-of-print, but used copies can be purchased from a variety of booksellers online)

Course Outline
See “Course Calendar” below

Course Assignments & Requirements
1. Class Participation (Outcomes 1-6) – consistent, thoughtful participation in class discussion and small group work is absolutely essential in an online class. To assist in this process, a Moodle discussion component will be a central feature of the course. Students are required to post responses to discussion questions related to the assigned reading, weekly lectures, videos or other assigned resources, as instructed each week in that particular unit of the course.

   a. Online postings and responses are required at least three days each week. This means that each student must make her/his assigned posts over the span of at least three separate login times during the week. You may not simply make your assigned posts by logging in one time, making your assigned posts and then your assigned responses, all within the period of an hour or so, and then be done with the Forum for that week. You are required to spread out your assigned comments over at least three separate login occasions on three separate days.

   b. Good (“quality”) posted responses to discussion questions and other assignments should normally be at least 100 words in length, and it is preferable that these not exceed 150 words. Responses to the comments, observations, suggestions, or posted reviews of fellow classmates should normally be at least 50 words in length, and preferably will not exceed 100 words. Generally speaking, no one will be penalized for making long posts unless this becomes a problem; although as a courtesy to classmates (since everyone is expected to read all of the posts) it is helpful to be as concise and clear as possible. A good post (“quality post” will make substantive contributions to the Forum dialogue. An assignment posted in the Discussion Forum may be considered a “quality post” at the discretion of the instructor.

   c. It is expected that all postings will be written with good grammar and correct spelling, and all should be proofread before they are submitted. Please avoid using abbreviations and codes that are sometimes used in other types of online communication (“emoticons” are OK on occasion). Also, it is expected that all posts will be considerate, and respectful toward others.

   d. All online postings should be posted as instructed by the deadline – normally 11:55 p.m. US Central Daylight Time – in order to receive full credit. Late postings will be reduced by 15% for every day (or portion thereof) they are late. Occasional late postings may be accepted by the instructor, but only for the most compelling circumstances and if informed in advance. Due to the progressive nature of online learning (each week building in sequence) required postings must be completed during the week they are assigned in order for any credit to be given. No postings will be graded after the week for which they were assigned.

It is expected that each student will read all of the posts made by all other students in the course. In a traditional classroom, students learn valuable information about the subject both from the professor’s lectures and presentations as well as from classroom dialogue between students and the instructor and between fellow students. The Forum on Moodle is the online counterpart to this valuable classroom interaction. It is often the case that valuable clarifications and insights come up during this online dialogue. and replies, as outlined in each week’s assignment, it is still expected that each one will read all the posts and comments in each week’s Forum (often this will mean checking at the end of the week or the beginning of the following week to check on posts one’s classmates made after your last online login).

NOTE: It is understood that there will be times when “life gets in the way” or when a ministry crisis arises. These situations will be taken into consideration when they are communicated honestly and promptly to the professor. Generally one such situation per student in allowed during the semester if requested. However, a pattern of personal “crises” is unacceptable.

2. Read Mystics and Messiahs: Cults and New Religions in American History by Philip Jenkins and write a critical reflection essay approximately 1,000 to 1,250 words in length (see below).
The critical reflection essay is due no later than June 3.

3. Read Understanding New Religious Movements by John A. Saliba, pp. 1-67, and post at least two good posts relating specifically to the content of these two chapters – as directed in the Weekly Lesson.
4. Read the Mormons by Thomas F. O’Dea and write a critical reflection essay approximately 1,000 to 1,250 words in length (see below). The critical reflection essay is due no later than June 24.

5. Read New Religious Movements and the Theological Imagination in America by Mary Farrell Bednarowski and write a critical reflection essay approximately 1,000 to 1,250 words in length (see below). The critical reflection essay is due no later than July 22.

6. Read Understanding New Religious Movements by John A. Saliba, pp. 75-276 and write a critical reflection essay approximately 1,000 to 1,250 words in length (see below). The critical reflection essay is due no later than August 5.

INSTRUCTIONS FOR CRITICAL REFLECTION ESSAYS (Outcomes 1-6)

Each of the critical reflection essays referred to above ought to be approximately 1,000 to 1,250 words in length. The essays should include a brief summary of the content of the reading, but their main purpose is not summarization. Their main purpose is to interact critically with the content of the assigned book. Expected content of the essays would include: noting the author’s thesis (or theses) concerning the material presented; highlighting the most important ideas, developments, or persons discussed in the book and some indication why you consider these the most important; discussion of the implications of the information presented by the assigned material for understanding the subject of “cults,” “sects,” and new religious movements in America; discussion of your own personal reactions to the material presented in the assigned reading – questions it raises for you, and ways in which the material challenges, confirms, confuses – or generally affects – your personal understanding of, and attitude towards “cults” and “sects” in America.

7. Watch online at least 2 hours of the video, “The Mormons” (total time of all episodes is 4 hours). This can be viewed free online at http://www.pbs.org/mormons/view. Then post a brief review on the Discussion Forum (approximately 500 words or less) for other students to read and comment upon, noting the portions of the video you watched and your critical reflections on what you saw and heard (as related to information presented in Weekly Lessons, other assigned reading, etc.). The review of the video should be posted no later than July 8. (Outcomes 1-6)

8. Visit at least two places of worship and/or gathering for religious movements that would fall under some category of interest to this class (a list of possible visitation sites will be supplied at the beginning of the class). Each visit should be described and analyzed in a brief review (approximately 500 words or less) that will be posted on the Discussion Forum for other students (as well as the instructor) to read and comment upon. The review should include identification of the group visited, the nature of the meeting/gathering visited, the number and sorts of persons present (mainly young, old, families, etc., primary ethnic or racial group[s] represented, apparent socioeconomic status, etc.), a brief summary of the highlights of the meeting, and some evaluation or assessment of the experience and the group in light of information and ideas you have been learning in the course. The first visit review should be posted no later than June 17. The second review should be posted no later than July 15. (Outcomes 1-6)

9. Successfully complete two exams. The first exam will be available online during Week 7 of the course and the second will be available online during Week 13 of the course. Both exams will be primarily essay in form. More specific instructions will be given during the early weeks of class. (Outcomes 1-6)

Method for Submitting Assignments

The course is organized by weekly units. All materials and assignments needed for each week’s instruction are made available online in that week’s component of the course. This includes lectures, assignments, written reports, online postings, and examinations. There are appropriate sites and links provided within the units for each week of the course for you to submit written assignments, post online comments, etc.

Form and Style Expectations

There is no mandatory “style sheet” for this class. Students are, however, expected to consistently follow one of the standard forms for theses and term papers. The most current Turabian style manual is always an excellent choice.

Inclusive Language

NTS is committed to the equality of women and men. Recognizing that people have often used the English language in ways that imply the exclusion or inferiority of women, NTS urges students, faculty, and staff to avoid sexist language in public discourse, in classroom discussions, and in their writings. All written work presented to meet course requirements must use gender inclusive language.

Policy Regarding Late Work & Missed Exams

All assigned written work is due no later than 11:55 p.m. of the day that it is due. Late written assignments (other than regular assigned weekly postings) are reduced ½ letter grade for every three days (or portion thereof) overdue. Missed exams may not be made up at another time unless arrangements are made in advance with the professor, and for an exceptionally urgent reason.

Course Grading

For all written work, the following criteria are employed and evaluation and grading: 1) “A” quality work – is superior in every way – writing is clear, essentially without error in syntax, grammar, spelling, word usage, etc. – content evidences very careful reflection, insight, and original thought; 2) “B” quality work – is above average – writing is generally clear, with few errors in syntax, grammar, spelling, word usage, etc. – content evidences careful preparation and meets the minimum expectations of the assignment; 3) “C” quality work – average – writing is adequate, but may have errors – content is adequate – meets the minimum expectations of the assignment, but lacks insight and originality; 4) “D” quality work -- below average – writing is poor, marred with excessive errors – content evidences lack of insight or lack of understanding of the assigned material; 5) “F” quality work – failure to do satisfactory work – work evidences haste, lack of careful preparation, lack of basic understanding of the assigned material.

FINAL GRADES IN THE COURSE WILL BE BASED ON THE FOLLOWING WEIGHTING OF ASSIGNMENTS:
1. Consistent, informed online participation in the class (see specific expectations above and in the weekly units of the course) counts 30% of the final grade. Online participation will be evaluated and graded at three specific points in the course, and students receive feedback on their participation at these times. Participation assessment will be made at the end of week 4, at the end of week 9, and at the end of the course. If a student does not meet class participation standards in an online environment for four or more weeks, the professor may automatically fail the student.
2. The four critical reflection essays together count 32% of the final grade.
3. The two exams together count 26% of the final grade.
4. The visitation reviews and the review of the video, “The Mormons,” together count 12% of the final grade.

NOTE: In accordance with the provisions of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, NTS is committed to providing students with disabilities the opportunity to participate and benefit from its programs and activities. Accordingly NTS will make reasonable modifications to its programs and activities to accommodate otherwise qualified students with disabilities, unless such modifications would impose an undue burden on the operation of the particular program or activity or would fundamentally alter the nature or purpose of the program or activity. Students needing accommodations should contact the Office of the Registrar. They also should contact the instructor no later than the end of the first class session to discuss learning needs and adaptive strategies that have been beneficial for the student in the past.

Class Attendance
Attendance at classes is essential for realizing the maximum benefit of your education. Since the professor in each course is best acquainted with the importance of consistent attendance, he or she will determine the rules for attendance.

If a student does not meet class participation standards in an online environment for four or more weeks, the professor may automatically fail the student.
