The Acts of the Apostles
Authorship: Luke, A.D. 63

The book is addressed to Theophilus, as Luke had also addressed his gospel account. Theophilus means “lover of God” in Greek and may, therefore, refer to an anonymous individual or someone who actually bore that good name. Effectively, the book is addressed to all of every age who love Jehovah and seek to understand the scheme of redemption and the pattern for the New Testament church.

The author is determined to be the beloved physician, Luke, one of Paul’s traveling companions (Acts 16:10, 2 Tim. 4:11). Luke’s scientific and analytical nature and education bring to bear a detailed study of every aspect of this history.

The purpose of this epistle is to complete a two volume historical set on the life of Christ and the church he built. Luke’s gospel closes with an emphasis on Christ’s ascension; Acts opens with an account of this event and its effect on the apostles.

At a loss as to what they should do now, two heavenly men and the Holy Spirit map out their first steps. The apostles replenish their number and then begin taking the urgent gospel message to a dying world, beginning on Pentecost in Jerusalem.

This book is actually some of the acts of some of the apostles. The greater number of them was not with Luke and so their work is more obscure to us. Peter is the main character in the first twelve chapters, but the remarkable conversion of former persecutor Saul of Tarsus makes him the leading man thereafter.

Acts shows us the scheme of redemption at work as the preached gospel converts men to Jesus. Numerous conversion accounts are recorded, creating a pattern for preaching and obedience that has lasted ever since.

The book is also valuable in that explains the nature, organization, work and worship of the church to which we claim to be a part.

The Acts of the Apostles appears to be a sequel to Luke’s gospel account and picks up at the point of Christ’s ascension back into heaven as the apostles and disciples wait for guidance concerning what to do next.

As promised, the Holy Spirit arrives to remind them of Christ’s doctrine and to lead them into further truth. Immediately, redemption through the blood of the savior becomes the overriding theme of the book and the church’s mission. Throughout the Acts of the Apostles, audiences as small as one and as large as many thousands are instructed to believe the truth about Jesus, turn from their sins, confess their faith publicly and courageously, and then be baptized for the remission of sins. The baptism of the Holy Spirit occurs just twice, once upon Jews (the apostles in Acts 2) and then upon Gentiles (Cornelius’s household in Acts 10), fulfilling Joel’s prophecy and making the gift of the Holy Spirit (his presence and grace) possible for all of mankind.

The word “witness” is used at least 30 times in the book, showing that the early church used the eyewitness testimony of the apostles and others to assert that this same Jesus was resurrected from the dead and is the savior of the world. Eschewing a social or recreational gospel, the various congregations appointed their own overseers and attended to a spiritual mission centered around the forgiveness of sins.

Our English word “martyr” comes from the same root as witness and the Acts shows how often professing Christ could bring about persecution and even martyrdom. Yet this willingness to die for one’s beliefs is surely also good reason for heathen and Jewish audiences to consider the faith more seriously—if some are willing to give their lives for it, there must be something to it. If we are failing to take risks for our faith, we should not be surprised if the lost understand that our beliefs really don’t mean that much to us.

The governing and practice of the early church becomes an obvious pattern. Outside of Jerusalem where the apostles were, local congregations appointed overseers (known variously as elders, pastors, bishops and presbyters) and deacons (or servants) and labored with evangelists and other teachers. Worship consisted of prayers, singing, the Lord’s Supper and a monetary contribution for needy saints. No pope was selected and no denomination was established; they were simply churches of Christ.

Out of this book springs forth a seminal character in church history. Paul emerges from among the fiercest persecutors of the church to becomes its most tireless proponent, abandoning his influence and prosperity within Judaism to embrace Christ and risk his life preaching him. His efforts take him around the known world and put him in extremely dangerous predicaments, but as the book concludes he is still going strong. His dedication is an example for all those who wear the same blessed name of Christ.
Lesson 1: Ascension

1. Who wrote the book of Acts? To whom was it addressed? What other book did he receive from this author?

2. What convincing proofs did Jesus offer of his resurrection? What did he continue to preach?

3. What is reflected in the apostles’ question concerning the restoration of the kingdom to Israel?

4. For what reason did Jesus instruct the apostles to remain in Jerusalem? Had he made this promise to them before?

5. Why did the apostles stare into heaven at the Lord’s ascension? What assurance did the two men in white give them?
6. What did they do back in their upper room?

7. Was there scriptural authority for Peter to push for someone to succeed this apostle in his office? Where is it? Is there any authority for a successor to the other offices or even this one, once it was filled this time?

8. Of exactly what were the apostles to testify? Could someone who has not seen the risen Christ qualify as such a witness?

9. Which man was chosen to fill the vacant seat? How was he chosen? Who chose him?
Lesson 2: Pentecost

1. How did the Holy Spirit’s arrival become apparent to the apostles? What new ability did the apostles suddenly possess?

2. What caused these devout Jews from all over the world to be confused and amazed? Were the apostles speaking gibberish or real human languages?

3. Whose prophecy did Peter claim this event was fulfilling? Are we then living in the “last days”?

4. Did God know beforehand that Jesus would be crucified, or did the Jewish rebellion surprise the Creator?
5. What act of God put Jesus on David’s throne over God’s kingdom?

6. What was the force of Peter’s rebuke in verse 36? Peter tells the penitent to do two things. What are they?

7. They believed but Peter continues to tell them that they still need to be saved. Finally they receive this command and are baptized. What does this teach us about the role of baptism in the scheme of salvation?
Lesson 3: Solomon’s Porch

1. Why was this man put daily at the temple gate? What did he ask of the Christians he encountered there? Is there any evidence to suggest this man was a member of Christ’s church?

The lame man was placed there each day to beg alms from charitable people. He asked Peter and John for money. It seems apparent he was not a Christian.

2. How did the apostles reply to his request? Why did they not take some money from the church treasury (2:44-45, 4:37) and give it to him?

The apostles claimed they had nothing material to give him because he was not a part of the church yet and because they were concerned with giving men a spiritual gift.

3. How much time elapsed between Peter’s healing and the man’s recovery?

He immediately arose and walked.

4. What impression did this leave on him? How did it impress the other people nearby?

The healed man and all the witnesses were amazed at his recovery. The lucky man leapt and praised God.

5. With what open accusation did Peter address his hungry audience? How were so many people partly responsible for this event?

He blamed them openly for crucifying Jesus because so many had argued for the release of the murderer, Barabbas, rather than their King.

6. Was their sin one of ignorance or blatant, intentional rebellion?

Peter claims they sinned in ignorance, that had they understand who Jesus was, they never would have killed him.

7. What is Peter’s twofold command to them in verse 19? Define both terms.

Repent (cease your sin and apologize for it) and be converted (change your evil ways).
8. What had Moses predicted about those who rejected Jesus?

9. The covenant God made with Abraham involved three promises to the man. What were they (Genesis 12:1-3)? How was each fulfilled by God?

10. Was the message of Jesus designed to tolerate or eradicate sin?

11. What three groups of men interrupted the sermon?

12. Can you find something in Peter’s speech that would especially bother the Sadducees?

13. Where did the preachers spend that night? What did Peter later say about suffering this way (First Peter 4:15-16)?

14. Did Peter’s sermon have any good effect on the audience?
Lesson 4: Initial Jewish Hindrance

1. Why was Peter in trouble?

Peter had preached Jesus, something the Jewish rulers found objectionable.

2. Knowing for what reason he was in this mess, did Peter change his message or his method to accommodate the rulers?

No, he preached just as forcefully as before that they were the one who had killed their Prince.

3. Verse eleven is an often repeated quotation that proves the crucifixion of Christ was foreknown to God long before the Jews rejected Jesus’s earthly ministry. From where does this quote come? Of what is Christ the chief cornerstone?

Peter quotes Psalm 118:22 which foretells the Lord’s role as the chief cornerstone of the church (Eph. 2:20).

4. What piece of evidence was staring the rulers in the eye, proving that Peter and James had done something marvelous?

The man who had been lame from birth stood there completely well.

5. How would you characterize the rulers’ handling of the gospel claims Peter was asserting?

They were acting dishonestly, for they knew beyond doubt that a miracle had been wrought, but still would not even consider the claim of Christ to the throne of Israel.
6. What solemn warning did the rulers give the apostles? Did the apostles heed it in deference to the government?

7. What are the practical implications of Peter’s statement in verse 19?

8. Were the apostles and disciples overly discouraged by this turn of events? Have you ever faced anything like the rulers’ threat?

9. Some misapply the prophecy of Psalm 2 to point to the end of the world. Peter defines for us the fulfillment of David’s prediction, however. What is the fulfillment, according to this passage?

10. What single word characterized their preaching, according to both verses 29 and 31?
Lesson 5: One Heart and One Soul

1. Many people in denominations speak of “witnessing” as their attempts at teaching. The Bible gives the job of “witnessing” to a select group of people who had actually seen something they could testify about. What had the apostles and some others actually witnessed?

2. Where was the collection for the needy saints laid?

3. Why did the apostles give Joses his nickname?

2. Next he calls Joseph. How did God provide for Israel through Joseph?

3. How did the forefathers of Stephen’s accusers treat Moses?

4. Stephen summarizes his defense against the charge of blasphemy, relating to the temple. Is God dependent upon an earthly structure to relate to man?

5. What does it mean to be “stiff-necked”?

6. What does it mean to be “uncircumcised in heart and ears”?
7. The Calvinist says that the Holy Spirit is irresistible. What does Stephen say?

8. How did these men regard the law of God? How is this a warning to Christians today?

Lesson 10: Peter and Cornelius

1. How does Luke describe Cornelius?

   He was a centurion (officer in charge of 100 Roman soldiers) in the city of Caesarea, a devout God-fearing man who was generous with the needy Jews and who prayed to God constantly.

2. If God does not hear the prayer of sinners (John 9:31), why was he listening to Cornelius?

   Cornelius was expressing the desire to be removed from sin and into God's favor, a sincere wish the Lord was happy to grant by the gospel.

3. Describe Peter’s vision.

   Peter saw a great sheet coming down by its four corners to the ground and upon it were all kinds of animals, crawlers and birds, which he was encouraged to kill and eat, in apparent violation of the Law of Moses.

4. Why did Peter object to the vision’s command to kill and eat the animals?

   They were considered unclean by the law of Moses and off-limits for ingestion. Peter was professing loyalty to God’s law.

5. What did God ultimately mean when he said to Peter, “What God has cleansed you must not call common?”

   God had opened the door for Gentiles, formerly also considered unclean for Jewish association, to hear the gospel and be saved on an equal basis with Jews.
6. How promptly was Peter convinced?

7. The Holy Spirit was giving Peter this ground breaking development in pieces. The first piece was his vision; the second piece was the instruction to go with some men; the third piece was whom these men represented. Whom did they represent? Why did he want Peter to come?

5. Consider Acts 11:15–about how long had Peter been speaking when the Holy Spirit fell on them?

6. How were the Jews affected by this spectacle?
7. Of what event did Peter think, upon witnessing the baptism of the Holy Spirit here?

8. Judging from the context and your knowledge of the Jews’ disdain for Gentiles, even considering them second-class Christians in the future, why do you suppose the Holy Spirit came upon the Gentiles in this way?

9. What is Peter’s last command here?
Lesson 12: The Conversion of Gentiles

1. What does the phrase “those of the circumcision” mean?
