

In the past week, we've received several inquiries regarding job solicitation.

We have come to discover the Henssler Financial firm name is being improperly used in a phishing scam, offering job opportunities. The scam is directing applicants to our website and is using correct email addresses. The scam is using an email address with the domain of HensslerFinancial.org. Please note this site is not affiliated with Henssler Financial.

Please note, Henssler Financial is not currently offering any data entry jobs or opportunities to work from home. We do not conduct interviews by Instant Message or any other Internet chat client.

If you have received an unsolicited job offer from Henssler Financial, we ask that you report the fraud to <http://www.ic3.gov/complaint/default.aspx>.

While the Internet is a powerful tool, it is also ripe with phony information and scams. When searching for a job, we encourage you to be cautious of the personal information you give out. Consider reading this article about the Top 10 Internet Job Scams: <http://jobsearch.about.com/od/jobsearchscams/a/top-10-internet-job-scams.htm>

Thank you,

The Leadership Team at Henssler Financial