RAZOR & TIE.

"Dick" was Dick Latvala, the official tape archivist for the Grateful Dead until 1999, whose inspiration and encyclopedic knowledge of the band's vaults spawned the fabled Dick's Picks series of live Dead concert recordings. Comprised of 36 volumes, Dick's Picks follows the band on its long, strange trip through a multitude of eras, tours and venues, featuring handpicked shows that display the band at its visionary, improvisational height. Now, Real Gone Music is finally bringing this unparalleled cache of Dead concert brilliance to record stores—many of these volumes have never been available at music retail, and the others have been unavailable for close to a decade!

GRATEFUL DEAD: Dick's Picks Vol. 17—Boston Garden 9/25/91 (3-CD Set)

This Pick was, at the time it was released, chronologically the latest live show in the Grateful Dead discography, and it's still the second latest concert to be officially released in their vast library. And it chronicles a very special period in Dead history, when Bruce Hornsby sat in with the band to form, along with former Tube Vince Welnick, a formidable, two-pronged keyboard attack. This particular volume—culled from a complete 9/25/91 show at the Boston Garden (a consistently good "stadium" venue for the band) and a bonus half hour from a 3/31/91 show in Greensboro, NC—is also notable for including the first-ever performance of Paul McCartney's "That Would Be Something" and the first-ever appearance of Dylan's "The Mighty Quinn" on a Dead album. Add to that the stunning, 23-minute version of "Eyes of the World" that caps off the third disc and Dick's Picks Vol. 17 is a exemplary document of late-period Dead. Out of print for years!
